Mr. John R. Price, Jr.
Senior Vice President and Secretary
Manufacturers Hanover Corporation
270 Park Avenue
New York, N. Y. 10017

Dear John:

I want to thank you for your very kind note of April 15, 1986. I must say the only aspect of this new position that I find daunting is the thought of walking in Bob Inman's shoes.

I would like to see you again. Since dinner seems to be difficult to arrange, I would like the opportunity to have you out here for lunch. The next time you know you are going to be in Washington, please give me a call so we can arrange something. If we also can arrange a dinner at some point, so much the better.

Again, thanks for your thoughtful note.

Regards,

Robert M. Gates

JOHN R. PRICE, JR.

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT AND SECRETARY

April 15, 1986

Mr. Robert M. Gates
Deputy Director - Designate
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Bob:

What wonderful news! I was absolutely delighted to read of the action by the Senate Intelligence Committee on your nomination. It is a promotion which is tremendously well deserved by you and my warm congratulations to you and Becky. I know that your many friends share my attitude and wish you complete success in your new role.

I had had a late evening drink with Bob Imman a few months ago and, as always, when I am with him I think of you as well.

I had tried once or twice last year to schedule another dinner date through Becky, but our respective travel plans never meshed at the right time. I will make another effort soon and hope to congratulate you personally.

Again, best wishes.

Sincerely,
